Writer's Workshop

In writer's workshop we are working on stretching our sentences and adding details as we continue to move our writing pieces through the writing process.

Weekly Homework

Monday was President's Day. Our Presidential Past is an article about George Washington's and Abraham Lincoln. Please read and discuss the article with your child, and then ask him or her to read it back to you before completing the homework activities. Remember, there will be a comprehension question about the homework on Friday's spelling test.
