1. p.10 "Wait, wait, I can't find my notebook."

"Oh, whadja need that for?" Sport yelled from the steps.

"I never go anywhere without it," came the muffled answer.

2. p.41 "Her tools were a flashlight, ... a leather pouch, ... another leather case for extra pens, a water canteen, and a boy scout knife..."

3. p.35 "Every day at three forty-five she had cake and milk. Harriet loved doing everything every day in the same way."

4. p.53 The grocery store was on York Avenue, and there was a little alleyway beside it that provided three vantage points from which Harriet could watch.

5. p.194 Inside she felt herself thinking, "Everybody hates me, everybody hates me." At first she didn't listen to it and then she heard what she was feeling.

6. p.279 "The selection has been made, and the editor from now on for this half year will be Harriet M. Welsch."
